GENERAL OVERVIEW
The Office of the Vice President for Finance (VPF) works to advance MIT’s mission by supporting thoughtful stewardship and effective deployment of the Institute’s financial resources. Forward-thinking and future-oriented, this 165-person office is working to create a seamless administrative experience for MIT colleagues and make it easier for them to comply with grant, accounting, and other applicable rules. VPF also seeks to enhance the quality of financial information available to MIT and is focused on providing services that are readily adaptable to the evolving demands of an increasingly global Institute. A team-oriented office, VPF strives to exemplify financial and administrative excellence and the highest levels of integrity, inclusiveness, and accountability.

POSITION OVERVIEW STATEMENT
The Accounting Officer for Benefits Accounting is responsible for the accounting and reporting of the Institute’s employee benefit and compensation programs. This includes supporting the team to assess and establish appropriate financial controls and administrative processes that ensure accurate and compliant external reporting of benefit expenses and liabilities. She/he will help establish internal reporting and communication capabilities to meet internal business unit reporting needs. Duties include accurately recording benefits expenses, compiling financial statements and audit support, developing and improving accounting, data, and reporting processes, reviewing and managing financial data using SAP and related financial reporting tools. The ideal candidate will have excellent knowledge of accounting and financial reporting, a general knowledge of employee benefits programs, and be able to communicate complex issues effectively.
