GENERAL OVERVIEW:
The Office of the Vice President for Finance (VPF) works to advance MIT’s mission by supporting thoughtful stewardship and effective deployment of the Institute’s financial resources. Forward-thinking and future-oriented, this 165-person office is working to create a seamless administrative experience for MIT colleagues and make it easier for them to comply with grant, accounting, and other applicable rules. VPF also seeks to enhance the quality of financial information available to MIT and is focused on providing services that are readily adaptable to the evolving demands of an increasingly global Institute. A team-oriented office, VPF strives to exemplify financial and administrative excellence and the highest levels of integrity, inclusiveness, and accountability.

VPF Contracts is a professional service organization within MIT’s Office of the Vice President for Finance (VPF) responsible for reviewing, negotiating and executing agreements for the acquisition of goods and services. The team works closely with all areas of MIT’s research, educational and administrative departments, labs and centers (DLC) to understand business and research objectives in order to negotiate terms of agreements, with an eye toward protecting MIT’s interests and minimizing risk. The Contracts team provides advice and expertise in the areas of strategic analysis, negotiation, due diligence, risk mitigation, regulation and compliance, and contract creation and review. A key thinking partner to VPF and to MIT’s DLCs, the Contracts team also engages in large-scale projects of strategic importance to the Institute, providing a thoughtful business perspective to significant contractual relationships. It collaborates with many sectors of MIT, including the Office of the General Counsel (OGC), the Technology Licensing Office (TLO), Information Systems and Technology (IS&T), Human Resources, and others, as it guides contractual relationships toward solutions that balance both departmental business needs and the Institute’s broader mission and goals.

POSITION OVERVIEW:
The Contract Advisor serves as part of team of contracts attorneys and experts who serve the MIT community by reviewing, analyzing, preparing, negotiating, and administering all types of commercial contracts for the procurement of goods and services. Contract commodities cover a diverse and dynamic range of industries including but not limited to professional service agreements, technology services, software licenses, equipment purchases, travel and hospitality, lab supplies and equipment, research collaborations, non-disclosure/confidentiality agreements, data use agreements, and many others. Contract negotiations can be complex in nature and involve commercial entities/vendors ranging from individual/small businesses to large corporations and Fortune 500 companies.

Principal Duties and Responsibilities (Essential Functions):

- Write, review, analyze, revise, negotiate and execute commercial contracts to ensure client’s business interests are achieved, while protecting risk to the Institute and maintaining positive working relationships with external suppliers and service providers.
• Consult with stakeholders, primarily internal, on all matters relating to commercial contracts while simultaneously providing consistent and high-quality customer service to the MIT community
• Advise and collaborate with VPF’s Strategic Sourcing team to understand business requirements and scope of work, develop solicitation documents (RFI, RFP and RFQs), and secure negotiated contracts
• Work and advise VPF’s Procurement Operations team to ensure terms and conditions and/or contracts meet MIT requirements
• Ensure contractual language and procurement process limits exposure for unintended risk to the Institute
• Assure quality and timeliness of work product as well as satisfaction of client with respect to contract requirements and terms and conditions
• Identify and resolve contractual problems and deficiencies within the limits of authority using appropriate degrees of sensitivity, and escalate issues as needed to management
• Serve as a resource to the MIT community and collaborate with other central administrative offices on administrative matters related to contract arrangements
• Develop and maintain competence in general compliance issues in order to resolve contract administration problems that arise involving interpretation of terms and conditions, changes in requirements, terminations, and disputes
• Assist in preparing and presenting training in procurement and related topics to key areas of the Institute
• Attend local and regional meetings and training for professional procurement contracting personnel and stay current with changes in policy and legislation affecting contracts
• Assist with special projects, including, but not limited to, policy development and process improvements
• Other duties as assigned
